Mental health tips during a quarantine

People react differently to stressful situations, and the outbreak of Coronavirus Disease 2019, or COVID-19, may cause feelings ranging from concern or worry to anxiety or anger, among many other possible reactions.

If you and your household are under quarantine – whether self-quarantine or otherwise – you may be feeling a number of emotions including feeling anxious, lonely, bored or frustrated. It's important to understand your feelings during this time and pay attention to your mental health.

Here are some tips for helping take care of your mental health during this time.

1. Look for ways to relax. Find things that help you manage stress. Consider trying deep breathing, stretching or meditation. There are also apps that may help you deal with stress.
2. Set boundaries. While it's important to have up-to-date, reliable information, you should limit exposure to the ever-present media coverage.
3. Create regular routines. For example, consider setting up a regular routine for physical activity, communicating and connecting with others, and continuing other day-to-day habits.
4. Make a list. Gather a list of contacts, including friends, family, neighbours and healthcare providers, as well as any therapists or counsellors, and other community resources. Place it somewhere prominent in your home, for example on your refrigerator.
5. Check your medications. Make sure you have any prescriptions and/or over-the-counter medications you need. Take your prescriptions as recommended. If possible, the recommendation is to have a two-week supply on hand. Talk to your doctor or pharmacist to learn how you can obtain what you need.
6. Define how you'll stay connected. Establish how you'll communicate with friends and family via available methods – text, phone calls, over-the-Internet or even with letters in the post. Consider 'face-to-face' time using apps that allow you to videochat with others.
7. Keep up with healthy habits. Your physical health is an important part of your mental health, during a quarantine and always. Avoid using tobacco, alcohol or other drugs to try to manage stress. Get plenty of rest and physical activity.

8. Be aware of stress. A quarantine may cause additional stress. For example, you may experience financial stress if you are unable to work. Talk to your employer about why you may be missing work.
